ETHELWOLD CALLED

TREASURE SHIP NOW

NEW RUMOR THAT SHE WAS BOUND FOR COCOS ISLAND TO
HUNT FOR $60,000,000 HIDE-
DEN LOOT

Cargo Search Postponed

Loeb Started One, But It Was Called Off Pending Threatened Action by Insurance Companies.

The little British steamship Ethelwold, which, it was said, was about to sail for a South American port last Wednesday, is still in Erie Basin under guard of two customs inspectors from Collector Loeb's office, and there is no telling when she will sail now. Rumors that the small ship with the big British flag is held up because in her cargo there may be a lot of dangerous playthings for the use of troublemakers in some South Atlantic republic will not down, and Friday additional color was given to them when a delegation of customs men went to Erie Basin to take a look into the cargo hold of the Ethelwold.

While the rumor about the contraband goods will not down still another one—not nearly so dangerous sounding—has cropped out. This is that the Ethelwold is about to sail, provided Collector Loeb says "yes," for the little island of Cocos in the South Pacific, about 550 miles southeast of Guatemala, where lies the key to a seafaring yarns now nearly a hundred years old, a fortune in loot that would yield its finders $60,000,000.

It is said that Capt. "Jim" Brown, the veteran skipper of the Ethelwold, has been after this alleged treasure before, and one rumor Friday was that the Ethelwold had been bought outright by a Dr. Dennis O'Hagan, to make another search for the hidden wealth of Cocos island. Dr. O'Hagan, who up to a few weeks ago lived at the Hotel Gotham, isn't there any more, and so this rumor could not be verified at first hand. At the Gotham it was said that the doctor had fled to the Pacific Coast, and is now cruising in his yacht in Southern waters.

At the Grand Union, where "Jim" is staying, he refused to talk. He said that he was not in the habit of being interviewed and wouldn't say a word in regard to contraband goods, customs inspectors, or Cocos island. A year ago news came from Boston that capitalists of that city had financed an expedition for "Capt. James Brown" to search for the treasure. He said, declared that he was in a position to locate the long-lost treasure of the little Pacific island. The loot was said to consist of gold, silver, and precious stones from ancient Peru of a value variously estimated at from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000. Among those who, it was said, would go with Capt. Brown were Messrs. G. M. E. and H. A. Harrington of Boston and W. M. Harrington of Providence.

The searchers incorporated the undisturbed under the laws of Massachusetts, and it was announced that an option had been obtained on the little fruit steamer Ethelwold. Capt. Brown, it was said, had searched for the treasure on several previous occasions, one of the earliest expeditions being in 1850. What success attended the Massachusetts effort or he intended, but failure apparently did not dim the Cocos aspirations of Capt. Jim, for in February of this year a rumor reached from San Francisco, announced that he had sailed again for Cocos island.

Four weeks ago Capt. Brown arrived in New York, and he came the latest episode of the Ethelwold. Friday it was said that the collector had decided to end once and for all the search for the treasure. He held of the Ethelwold. With this object in view a picked detachment from the local secret service bureau was sent to Erie Basin with instructions to overhaul the little ship and find out everything in her from the skipper's razor to the alleged contraband for the South Atlantic.

The inspection of the ship started, but before it had gone very far, Collector Loeb received word from the Lloyd's that the insurance on the vessel and cargo was being protected on the ground that she was overloaded with 15,000 cases of oil.

When the unloading of the vessel comes off the collector will have inspectors on hand to watch the removal of the cargo and to see that nothing contraband is aboard.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER SEAVIEW AVE. LAYOUT

At its meeting to-night it is expected that the Common Council will act upon the petition of James A. Price to build a livery stable in Union Square. There is much opposition to the petition by property owners of the neighborhood of the proposed stable. The petition for the layout of Seaview avenue to the water will probably come up. The Seaview Boat Company is said to believe that the land over which the street would extend is their land. The members of the Marine Club, who are active in favor of the extension, say that the street was originally laid out to the water.

NEW YORK POLICE

HAVE ANOTHER

MURDER MYSTERY

(Special from United Press.)

New York, July 4.—With her head beaten in and her body covered with bruises so as to render the face unrecognizable an unknown woman was found dead, literally beaten to death, in the doorway of a tenement house on East Thirteenth street early to-day. The whole doorstep was covered with blood and bloody tracks showed that the woman's assassin had walked around to the rear of a saloon after killing her, and escaped.

The murder was discovered by Morris Gross, a boy of 12, who was helping his brother deliver milk. The boy dropped his milk bottle and lantern and ran screaming to the street. Policemen Cohen and Scherr held him while he caught his breath. The boy was so frightened that he could not speak but he led the policeman to the hallway and pointed inside. "There's a woman dead in there," he said. "I saw her and she was bleeding." The policeman found the woman's body under the stairway, beaten so badly that she could not be identified. It looked as though the woman had been turned into the stairway and had died fighting. Dr. Rutledge from Bellevue said the woman had been dead about twenty minutes. Every man and woman in the tenement was taken to view the body but all declared they had never seen her before. The bloody tracks from the doorway led into the rear of a saloon nearby, kept by Adolfo Calla. The police found a man asleep on a pool table here and arrested him. He declared that he had been asleep on the pool table all night and knew nothing about the murder.

Afterwards he said that he had heard a scuffling about 10 o'clock but that it was none of his affair and that he had gone to sleep again. The bloody tracks led up to the pool table and the murderer must have gone right up to the doorway and been crushed by the door. The man who had been asleep on the pool table was a night watchman. Simon Brady, a night watchman gave the police a valuable clue from the doorway. "I saw a man come out of the hall about one o'clock. He was about twenty-one or two years old and short and dark. He wore a dark suit and a derby hat. He was very nervous and I watched him. At first avenue he was joined by five other men. They talked a while and then they went down the street. The man who came out of the doorway walked into a soda fountain. He asked permission to wash his hands. I saw him close and saw that his hands were bloody."

The police believe that the woman was dragged into the hallway and attacked and that she died while fighting for her honor.

SENSATION OVER

ARREST OF AN

ALLEGED ASSASSIN

(Special from United Press.)
Paris, July 4.—Premier Clemenceau today began an investigation of the sensational report that Michel Landesen, chief of the Russian secret service, is really the fugitive, Hekkele, who was sentenced to five years in prison in France for an attempt to assassinate Czar Alexander III, father of the present Czar in 1894.

Landesen, besides gaining high position and honor in the service of Czar Nicholas, is a member of the Legion of Honor of Paris and well known throughout Europe. The charge that he is the man who attempted to kill the Czar's father, by blowing him up with dynamite, has caused one of the greatest sensations of European intrigue in years.

The vessel sailed from Philadelphia and the police believe that they have information that Leon is aboard.

BULLET HITS MRS. BIRDSALL

Father Fires Missile into Daughter's Arm—Fire Department Alert, But Has Little Work to do—Rocket Crashes Through Store Window.

With the usual number of fires, personal injuries and minor sacrifices to the noise mania Independence Day was celebrated yesterday in a way that showed a decided tendency toward the quieter Fourth. The man who fires a gun in the faces of others, and the man who shoots bullets from some place, are the two most common offenders. Mrs. Frederick W. Birdsall, of 159 Iranistan avenue, actually was struck by a spent missile fired from some place. The bullet, which wounded her in the back, was reported. Mrs. Birdsall, who is 40 years old, was in the street, and the bullet struck her in the back. The ambulance, with Dr. Edward F. McGovern was called. Dr. McGovern found the wound not serious.

Joseph Carroli, of High Street, while cleaning his .38 calibre revolver, discharged it. The bullet lodged in the back of his head. He is 50 years old, and his daughter Mamie, 12, is not seriously injured. Among those who were injured was Frank P. March, 32 French street, wounded in legs by fragments of a cartridge shell while boarding a trolley car. Thomas Sullivan, 23 Booth street, finger cut by trigger of powder. John E. Edmond, wounded in right hand by fragment of exploded cannon; Frank Spaine, 14 years old, 598 Harrah avenue, cartridge wad in left hand; William J. Bell, 23 West 109th street, cartridge wad in middle finger of left hand; Hugh Clark, aged 14, 106 Highland avenue, burned by wad; William J. Bell, 23 West 109th street, wounded by wad; Robert Williams, 14 years old, Housatonic Avenue, shot in back of head; Harry LaBrec, 1173 East Main street, wounded by cartridge wad; Mrs. Fannie Jones, 801 Broad street, burned in face by powder from pistol in hands of another Winslow Blanchard, aged 14, 824 State street, wounded by wad; John Farley, aged six, 1144 Main street, wounded by wad; Hector Hackett, 828 Seaview avenue, wounded by wad; John Carroll, aged 23, 1070 Madison avenue, shot in foot; Edward Stephenson, aged 9, 60 Harrah street, wounded by wad; Edw. Weldon, 12 years old, 74 Main street, wounded by wad; Alice Bash, aged 16, 73 Seymour street, shot wound in face; Walter Green, aged 15, 46 Johnson street, wounded by wad; Louis Angell, aged 9, 46 Johnson St., wounded by wad; Joseph Howard, 10 years old, 100 West 109th street, wounded by wad. Nearly all of these were treated at the Emergency Hospital.

The fire department was on the quiver during the day and responded to the usual number of alarms calling them to incontinent conflagrations.

TAFT'S SPECIAL

STRUCK BY BIG

CHUNK OF COAL

(Special from United Press.)
New York, July 4.—A chunk of anthracite coal weighing three or four pounds was hurled at President Taft's special train just after it left New London, Conn., last night, for New York. The missile crashed through a window in the coach next to the President's car, and the window was shattered. The President was not hurt. The coach was damaged. The coal was found in the street.

THE CYCLONE.

How This Wonderful and Destructive Air Fury is Formed.

To get an idea of a cyclone's formation imagine a large circular pan or tub with quite a large hole in the middle of the bottom. With this hole plugged, fill the vessel with water, then draw out the plug and watch. There is first a rush of water from all directions toward the hole and a turbulent effort to get through; then the water surface above begins to sink and swirl, the particles gradually circling around and around and rustling, ever faster, toward the center. At last there is actually a hollow space through the center, around which all the water in the tub is whirling sluggishly near the rim, but with more and more violent rapidity toward the middle until it rushes downward through the bottom. Now, if that water were air you would be watching a little cyclone turned upside down, for the air rushes upward instead of downward.

RICE FAMINE MAY DEVELOP FROM GAMBLING BAN

(Special from United Press.)
Shanghai, July 4.—In an attempt to abolish gambling in Coochin-China, the governor of that colony has caused what may develop into a rice famine in one of the greatest producing countries in the world, according to word received here today. Some months ago the French government of Coochin-China decided to put an end to gambling which was carried on extensively, the rice figuring prominently as stakes. The natives are very poor and some of them are in a starving condition. Acting under the direction of their officials who want to prevent gambling, the natives have formed a boycott on the Chinese merchants and will not handle the rice won from them over the gambling boards and which is now stored in the granaries of Saigon waiting to be hauled and put on the market. This will affect the transportation of rice to the Philippines and Southern China. The average exportation of rice from Coochin-China is over 1,000,000 tons annually. But all of this amount is sent to Hong Kong for distribution to Southern China.

The boycott in Coochin-China is fast becoming strained and the price of rice in the Philippines and Southern China will be increased this year.

Many in Danger of Death from Lockjaw—Reduced Casualties Due to Safe and Sane Celebration, Though Marked Increase in Number of Injured.

(Special from United Press.)
Chicago, July 4.—The Chicago Tribune today publishes a table of the number of persons killed and injured throughout the United States as the result of two-days' celebration of the Fourth of July. It shows 44 persons dead and 2,361 seriously injured, many of whom are in danger of death from lockjaw. The lists show the more rigid laws and the growth of public sentiment for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July have materially reduced the casualties. Full returns up to this time show a falling off in the number of dead of 12 from the record of 1908, although there was a marked increase in the number of injured. In 1908, 1,899 persons were injured in celebrating, or 462 fewer than this year. There was also an increase in the fire loss, the total reports this year being $724,515 against $257,960 last year.

CITY COURT CASES

William F. Johnson, a negro, who is employed by Christopher Rickard, the truckman, was fined $50 and sent to jail for three months in the City court, this morning, for beating up Helen Rowe, a negro, with a bottle, last night. Helen was a gruesome spectacle this morning. She lives in Wales Block, Housatonic avenue, where the negro called on her.

The city court, Monday, disposed of cases as follows: Charles Lot, theft, $1 and costs and 30 days in jail; loitering, George Nichols, John O'Brien, Anna Smith and Emma Wandell, $1 and costs and 10 days in jail; jaywalking, Charles Lockwood, colored, loitering, $1 and costs; Tony Depieno, carrying concealed weapons, $10 and costs. Michael Murphy, D. & H. and a restaurant, $15 and costs. For celebrating the Fourth before the legal time, Joe Miller was fined $5 and costs; Andrew Savashanski forfeited a bond of $25; William Baney forfeited a bond of $20; William Cine was fined $1 and costs; Charles Prudue fined $1 and costs; John Evemetry fined $1 and costs, and Michael Maccario fined $1 and costs.

WALL STREET TO-DAY.

(Special from United Press.)

New York, July 4.—Gains ranging from fractions to over one point were made in a number of the active issues at the opening of the stock exchange and all through the first fifteen minutes trading was brisk and a strong tone generally prevailed. Union Pacific gained 1/4. Southern Pacific gained 1/4. But receded a little and Reading, after making a fractional gain, reacted to Friday's close. D. & H. advanced a point and United States Steel Common after a fractional advance showed a fractional loss after fifteen minutes. Midvale advanced and the minor industrials were firm to strong.

11 a. m.—Price movements during the first hour were mildly disappointing to the speculative element that was confident that this week would stand in with a general upward movement. A large number of stocks showed opening gains and some further advances were made in the first few minutes, but stocks were freely supported from the start and during the balance of the hour recessions were in order. Steel Common was down nearly a point. Harriman stocks showed opening strength but quickly lost most of their initial gains.

Government bonds unchanged; other bonds firm. Noon.—After the first hour the market became firm with a generally hardening tone and some stocks displayed aggressive buying. American Smelting rose over a point and a moderate recovery occurred in Union Pacific and several other important railroad stocks.

"ZAZA" ATTRACTS

LARGE HOUSES

Miss Fleming at Her Best in Role in Which Lighter Phases of Life Alternate With Tragedy.

An ideal day, ideal weather, coupled with the fact that a very important production had been advertised, brought two capacity houses to Poli's popular playhouse yesterday. "Zaza," one of the many masterpieces from the pen of that author-manager, David Belasco, was the bill and as produced by the stock company, scored a decided hit. The dramatic story of "Zaza" is one that appeals to one and all and is so simply told that any child can understand it, and to the elders it teaches a lesson well worthy of careful thought. "Zaza" is a popular concert hall favorite, patted and made much of by the public, and while she had many admirers, up to the opening of this story she had remained heart-frozen and had given no thought to any one man to love. "I love them all," she was wont to say, until one day Bernard Dufrene, a constant attendant on her performances, attracted her attention for the reason that he paid no attention to her or her charms. This angered Zaza and she laid plans to win him. She lays a trap for him when she meets Dufrene she will compel him to take her out to supper after the performance on the evening they meet. They meet and she wins him and but at the same time loses her heart and falls madly in love with Dufrene, who also becomes very much infatuated with her.

It is in Paris there is an other woman. Bent upon revenge she starts for Paris to confront the other woman. Arriving there she meets Miss Alice Fleming in the name part, a part created and made famous by Mrs. Leslie Carter, made a grand Zaza. In the lighter scenes she was light hearted, happy and played these scenes in a most happy manner. In the stronger emotional scenes she was at her best. In all the various "moods" this wonderful character possesses, Miss Fleming seemed at home and showed that she has made a careful study of this part. Mr. Ince had the good fortune to secure the most excellent performance. While the part of Dufrene is not a strong one it calls for careful and consistent reading, which is always to be expected of Mr. Ince's work. Some of the fine new scenery from the Poli private studio was shown for the first time. Zaza looks like a big winner of the weather man is kind, but then no matter about that, for Poli's is all ways cool.

TO LEAVE HILL OFF.

Washington, July 4.—It is reported on high authority that Representative E. J. Hill of Connecticut will positively not be appointed a member of the conference committee on the tariff bill.
